Incentive Awards

By Marty Celnick

Troy Gilmore' Tour De Casey's ride on July 1st won the vote for Ride of the Month. Scott Sievers won the monthly Ride Leader Incentive Award drawing, and a $50 gift certificate at the bike shop of his choice. Congrats, Troy and Scott!

The Almost Anything Award was given to Larry and Vanessa Willmore for making a special trip the night prior to put coolers with water on the 53 mile route for riders on Challenge #3. The first 4 Challenge rides are self-supported, but the lack of stores on this route made it a special case.

On a sad note, the coolers were stolen before they could retrieve them. The club is paying them back.

A few words from Tom Clark, SBC President

Well, it's Century time once again! This year's CCC has expanded to a weekend with a new Metric Century, Historic Ride, and Festival on Saturday, and the 46th Annual Classic Century on the Sunday after Labor Day, Sept. 9.

The Sept. 9 Classic Century is the 5th and final event in the Cycling Challenge series. Many thanks to Larry and Vanessa for organizing the first 4 Challenge rides this year. Other highlights in September include another Hellacious Hills Ride (Scott Sievers, Sept. 1), the Volunteer Century (Ted Sunder, Sept. 16), Full Moon Ride (Ernie DeFrates, Sept. 24), and Park to Park Ride (Troy Gillmore, Sept. 29). Our Annual Meeting and Socializer is Sept. 26. See you at a ride or event this month!

For updates, corrections and last-minute changes to the ride schedule, please check the SBC website at www.spfldcycling.org. Unless otherwise indicated, weekday daytime rides will not take place on holidays. All rides return to the starting point unless otherwise noted.

Ride Classifications

NC – Non-Cycling events.

MB – Rides suitable for mountain bikes.

EZ – For riders who prefer a pace under 10 mph. These are purely social rides. Expect short routes either in town or on a trail and expect to ride as a single group. No one will be left alone at the back of the group, and assistance is provided for flats and other minor mechanical problems.

D – For novice or recreational riders. Expect to ride at a pace of 10–12 mph, with rest stops as needed. Expect the ride leader or another club member to stay with the slowest rider and to offer assistance for flats and other minor mechanical problems.

C – For competent riders with basic safety and bike handling skills. These rides combine social riding with improving fitness and riding ability. Expect that most riders will ride in groups at a pace of about 12–15 mph. There may be rest stops on the route, but they will be limited. Riders are comfortable navigating by map if separated from the group and can handle their own mechanical repairs.

B – For strong, experienced riders with considerable group riding experience. Expect the emphasis to be on improving individual stamina and riding skills. Most riders will maintain a pace of 16–18 mph and will not feel obligated to wait for slower riders. Pace lines are common. Riders are able to handle their own mechanical repairs and are comfortable navigating by map if separated from the group.

A – For extremely strong and competitive riders with expert bike handling skills. Expect riders to be self-sufficient and to maintain speeds of 19+ mph for extended distances using pace lines.

Please arrive for rides 10 minutes early. Be sure that your bike is in proper working order before you arrive. All riders are strongly encouraged to obey traffic laws, wear a helmet, carry everything necessary to fix a flat tire, and bring hydration. If the ride leader fails to appear, form a group and go on a ride if you like. Then turn in your miles to the club record keeper (records@spfldcycling.org).

How do I choose my next bike saddle ?

1 Focus on what kind of cyclist you are. This is an important step to help you determine which saddle best suits your needs.

- Do you use the bike for short rides on a mainly flat itinerary, i.e. for commuting or just for recreational use? Or are you a more professional cyclist? And if the latter is your case, do you prefer road cycling or mountain trails?
- Do you do very long rides, or do you prefer short ones? Identifying what kind of bicycle rider you are will help you choose the best saddle for you.

2 Choose the cushioning. Depending on what kind of cyclist you are, you can choose between various types of cushioning. The most common are the following:

- Foam: It is flexible, but at the same time, it gives support. There are various saddles depending on the foam's density. Generally speaking, longer rides require harder foam, while it is better to choose a softer saddle for short rides.
- Gel: It is comfortable, absorbs shocks and vibrations and adapts to your body, but it also weighs more than foam. In addition to this, gel can lose its softness with time and become hard.

3 Choose your saddle type. Now that you know everything about cushioning, you can move on and choose the saddle. Each one has its own characteristic, and each saddle is best suited for specific rides:

- A general rule is that the more upright you are riding, the wider the saddle should be. Riding hunched over the bars on a wide saddle will cause much more pain than riding in the same position with a narrower saddle.
- Racing saddle: It is narrow, tapered and quite hard. It's designed in order to avoid irritation, and to let the legs move freely. This kind of saddle shifts most of the cyclist's weight to the arms and legs. It is chosen mainly by professional cyclists going for long rides.
- Comfort saddle: These saddles are much wider than racing ones and are softer, thanks to a more generous padding. They are designed to absorb shocks and let the cyclist ride comfortably. It is a good choice for recreational cyclists.
- Cruiser saddle: Since cruiser bikes force you to maintain an upright position, these saddles have to bear most of your body's weight. For this reason, they have a great amount of cushioning and are wider than the previous two. In addition, they are suitable for occasional cyclists going for slow rides without too much effort.

4 Decide whether to use a standard saddle or a special one. This choice depends entirely on you, since each one of us is made differently. Some cyclists prefer nose-less saddles to standard ones, because they reduce irritation during long rides; others go for a saddle with a softer channel in the middle or even with a hole. These options are intended to reduce pressure on the most delicate parts of the body, i.e. the perineum and genitals.

- If you are a woman, consider the possibility to purchase a specific woman saddle. These are generally wider because women tend to have wider hips than men. Finally, there are high-quality saddle retailers, where professional cyclists can purchase custom cycling saddles specifically designed following their specifications.

5 Try it. This guide may have helped you decide what kind of saddle may suit your needs, but the most important step to take is to try the saddle yourself. This is fundamental, because it is the only way in which you can realize if the saddle fits your body properly.
